At the present time there is much competition among Life Insurance Companies, and many agents are far too regardless of the truth, in statements when soliciting for risks, hence it is all important for persons intending to insure their fives, to insure only with agents whom they know to be reliable, again it is always most satisfactory for parties assured to have their risks with Local agents, then there is no difficulty or danger of loss in transmitting premiums. Persons intending to insure their lives will find it for their advantage to see the agent of the Guardian Mutual before insuring elsewhere.

TAMMANY HALL, N. Y., July 8. This is another warm day, and most of the delegates came in to the hall armed with fans. Mew York was reticent as usual. The Massachusetts delegates came in smiling, and they are supposed to be acting in concert with New York men. The friends of Chase were hopeful. The Convention was called to order by Vice President Price at 10,25. Prayer was offered. The Pendleton men are many of them bitter against Hendricks, and it is said that his friends give him up. Hancock would have gone higher if there had been another ballot yesterday, but it is thought that the adjournment destroyed his chances.

Vallandigham of Ohio took the stand, and read a communication dated Cincinnati, July 2d, from Mr. Pendleton to Mr. McLean, in which he said he did not want a nomination at the expense of a single electoral vote, or the loss of harmony in the party. He considered the success of the Democratic party of far greater importance than the gratification of personal ambition. He authorized Mr. McLean at any time when deemed expedient, to withdraw his name, promising his support to the candidate of the convention. He, Vallandigham, said that in conformity with the request of Mr. Pendleton, his name is now withdrawn. The convention proceeded to ballot.
